Fake Advertising

Every now and then the merchants of the town—or rather we ought to say, some of the merchants of the town—are taken in and done for by fake advertising schemes, which are worked by wandering adventurers. Barnum, the great showman, declared that the "American people like to be humbugged," and he grew rich by making use of his information. These advertising fakirs make money in the same way, by playing their game on the unsophisticated. The man who has been sold on once is hardly ever taken in again by the same scheme, but the fakirs know that, and are constantly inventing new schemes. And there are also new dealers going into business all the time, and they serve to keep up the stock of material to be worked upon, and as was remarked a day or two ago by a gentleman who is just now working a scheme which is very attractive, "There's never a total failure of the sucker." But every "sucker" who is caught sends just that much more money out of the country, and thus hurts by that much his own business as well as that of every one else who is doing business in the town. The only proper thing to get the wandering advertiser off one's shoulder, is the cold shoulder.---Albuquerque Journal.

'Twas Ever Thus

Since the time when Eve was the leader of fashion it has been the prerogative of woman to change her mind and the style of her clothes whenever she sees fit.

Women have worn other women's hair, and tight shoes with high heels, and enormous panniers, and hoop skirts that made them look like balloons, and hats with dead birds on them, and hollow and superfluous bustles, until mankind has meekly wondered what new fashion could possibly be invented.

The new fashion has arrived. It is the hipless woman. As to how the hocus pocus from hipped to hipless takes place we admit a modest ignorance. We only know that the hipless woman is among us.

She is to wear false eyelashes, too. Those eyelashes cost $20 a pair, but when was woman ever staggered by the price of her fixings?

Man will growl and grumble and brood, but he will continue to worship at the same old shrine.—Optic.

Changes in Game Law

For the benefit of Sportsmen, the Las Vegas Optic gives the following summary of the territorial game law:

As October 1 marks the open or shooting season, for most game in this territory, a short resume of the game laws of New Mexico may not come amiss to many of the ardent sportsmen who have not had time to read up on the subject.

Only one act pertaining to game was passed by last legislature, and that was an act changing the season for deer, doves and quail, which law authorized the county commissioners to extend the open season for quail two months in any precinct on petition of twenty-five residents. (See Chap. 105.)

The open or shooting season for different game is as follows:

Deer, with horns, October 15 to December 1.

Quail, native or crested, October 1 to February 1, and season may be extended as above explained.

Mountain grouse, prairie chicken, wild turkey October 1 to January 1.

In the above dates the last day is not included in the open season. Turtle dove July 15 to May 1.

Deer without horns, elk and mountain sheep are protected all the year round, and must not be killed.

Antelope enjoy a closed season until March 13, 1910, and bob white quail, pheasants and wild pigeon are immune until the same date while there is no open season for ptarmigan.

The laws of the territory prohibit the export of all game for market and the sale of all game taken within the territory.

The Methodist conference has assigned Rev. Williams of Portales, to this charge for the ensuing year.
